Annotations

You can annotate the resources on Thomson Reuters Westlaw™ UK. Adding your own annotations personalizes your understanding of the resource and documents your insights to create a dynamic knowledge repository and aid in your decision-making and legal research.

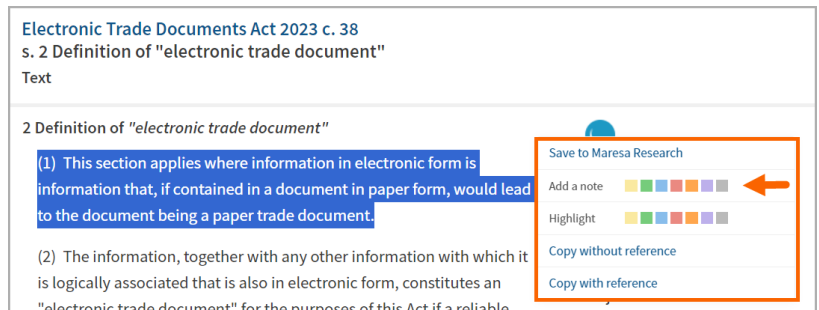

Header Annotations

1. You can add annotations at the top of any document.
2. Click the New Annotation icon on the righthand toolbar and then enter your note into the text box at the top. You can format your text and include live links.
3. These annotations can only be viewed by you unless you choose to share them.
4. If you have appropriate permissions, you can share annotations with individuals or groups of people within your organisation.

Inline Annotations

1. You can add Inline Annotations throughout the text of any document.
2. Use your mouse cursor to click and drag over a section of text and a pop-up will appear.
3. You can choose to add an Inline Annotation, save this section of text into a folder, highlight the text, or copy the extract with or without its reference (citation and date of copying).

Show or Hide All Annotations

1. If you have annotated a document, the Show/Hide Annotations icon on the righthand toolbar will indicate the total number of Header and Inline annotations.
2. You can click this icon to show or hide your annotations.
